This course is a survey of United States history beginning in the 1890s and concluding with the present. The course will provide a brief overview of political, economic, social, and cultural events during the time period. Special emphasis will be placed upon the developing sense of imperialism in the United States, along with changing economic conditions and developing cultural institutions in the backdrop of national politics. In the end, a greater appreciation of the American character will be attained.

This syllabus is a general outline for the course during the Fall Semester. Variations on the schedule may become necessary. Students are expected to complete reading assignments and participate in classroom discussion. Regular attendance is required, with students making every effort to be punctual and remain for the entire class. Frequent absences (more than 2) or consistent lateness will seriously effect the final grade.

The final course grade will be determined through: a quiz on the Constitution of the United States (worth 50 points); two tests from class discussion (each worth 100 points); one final exam (100 points); and one writing assignment (50 points). In the event of an absence on scheduled test dates the time and location of all make-up exams will be at the discretion of the instructor. Writing assignments turned in late, or make-up exams, will be penalized for lateness by 10 percent.

Writing Assignments
During the semester, students will be expected to visit the Atlanta History Center and write a five page review of the exhibits and presentations at the museum and the two Historic Houses. These papers will be turned in no later than Nov. 30. It is expected these papers will be straight forward statements of opinions and ideas. Each paper should be written in an essay format with an introduction, a body, and a conclusion. Students must attach a ticket stub or receipt to the final paper as proof of attendance.

Grades Breakdown (possible 400 points)
A-400 to 360 points
B-359 to 320 points
C-319 to 280 points
D-279 to 240 points
