Course Description
This course traces the major transformations that the Middle East and North Africa has gone through within the last two centuries. Over this period, the peoples of these places have struggled with imperialism, nationalism, and militarism. This course will analyze these major currents and themes. We will shortly address the early history of the region and then deal with the nineteenth and twentieth centuries in a chronological manner. We will thoroughly study and discuss the end of the multi-ethnic empires, reinstatement of colonialism, emergence of nationalism, and decolonization, as well as the expansion and decline of radical Islam in the region and the gender ramifications of these developments. During the course of our study, we will focus on Turkey, Iran, Egypt, Algeria, Iraq, and Israel/Palestine. During the course, we will gain a better understanding of the formation of the modern Middle East through a study based on readings from textbooks with primary documents as well as historical films.

Online exams are NOT open-book exams. Online exams are individual assignments. No student shall use direct quotations, language, and electronic based information of someone other than the student. No student shall receive, attempt to receive, knowingly give or attempt to give unauthorized assistance in the exam.

Detection of any form of cheating will result in a failing final grade and will be reported to the Department of Student Conduct and Academic Integrity (SCAI).

II. Film Paper
Every student is responsible for writing one analytical film paper one of the assigned movies. The report will be three pages long (approximately 900 words, +/- 50 words). In those reports, you are expected to analyze the movie from a critical perspective and to discuss the main issues, points, and prominent details of the films. Consider the following questions when you write your essays:

1. What are the important issues in the movie?
2. What is the main point the movie?
3. What are the prominent details?
4. What was particularly impressive, meaningful, annoying, or intriguing about book/film?
5. What are your positive and negative criticisms, questions, and/or comments?
6. How does the content of the film relate to our readings and discussions?

III. Individual presentations

Every student will sign up for a class presentation of an article or a chapter in article length. You are strongly encouraged to prepare an outline, provide handouts, and use visual aids.

IV. Group Projects

Every student will participate in a group project during the semester. At the end of the semester, the groups will present their projects in front of the class. Your grade will depend on both your individual performance and your group’s joint effort. Creative and novel approaches are encouraged. You can perform a piece, play music, wear costumes, and use a variety of multimedia sources.
V. Participation
Students will participate in the class in an active manner through the semester at a regular pace. Regular attendance is a prerequisite for active participation. Oral and written ways of participation are vital for active participation. You can orally participate in the class by discussing the assigned readings, raising probing questions, making comments, and engaging in discussions with your peers. You can also participate in class by completing written assignments on time. Your participation should reflect that you have carefully read the assigned pages and thought about the information provided in those pages.

Alternative ways of participation: If you feel that you did not have a chance to participate in a class, consider the optional alternative ways of participation. You can also participate in the class through three types of written accounts: reading logs, reflection logs, and online submissions. Turning in reading/reflection logs, or making online submissions are optional.

1. OPTIONAL Reading Logs:
A reading log is a written account of your understanding of the reading assignment. You should turn in your log at the beginning of the specific class that the reading assignment was scheduled. You should also be present in this particular class. Late or early reading logs will not be accepted. The length of a log is one page and it should contain:
   i. A short summary of the main points presented in the reading assignment
   ii. One or more probing question about the text or passages, terms, and concepts that needs clarification.

2. OPTIONAL Reflection Logs:
A reflection log is a written account of your afterthoughts about the class lectures and discussions. In a reflection log, you are expected to make your comments and ask your questions that you did not have a chance to do in class. You should turn in your log at the beginning of the next class. Late logs will not be accepted. The length of a log is one page.

3. OPTIONAL Online Discussion/Submissions:
I will post discussion topics and questions on Georgia View. You are encouraged to post your comments/answers/probing questions and engage into a dialogue with your peers.
