Course Description:
This course will examine how the United States emerged from an array of competing cultures and colonial empires as an independent nation with its own unique social and political institutions. The course will analyze how American society and political culture developed and responded to both internal and external challenges since the end of the 19th century. In order to encourage familiarity with a broad range of historical approaches, it is necessary to cover aspects of social, political, economic, diplomatic, and military history.

Course Goals:
In addition to acquiring the basic information described above, you will learn basic principles of historical thinking, including how to analyze and interpret primary and secondary sources, how to develop ideas based on historical evidence, and how to communicate those ideas effectively.

Expectations:
Success in this course requires regular attendance, prompt completion of all reading assignments, active class participation, and a solid effort on all exams and writing assignments. You are responsible for all of the assigned readings whether or not the material is covered in class.

Required Texts:

Student website – http://connect.mcgraw-hill.com/class/g_brooking_2112-25. You’ll need the textbook to access this site, which is mandatory as many of your quizzes and assignments will come directly from this website.

Attendance:
Spring 2011 HIST 2111 Syllabus - Brooking
Prompt and regular classroom attendance is expected. A sign-in sheet will be circulated at the beginning of each class. Students arriving late or leaving early will be counted “present” at the discretion of the instructor. Students arriving more than 15 minutes late to class (including exams) may not be admitted.

Additionally, students who fall asleep will be counted as absent. Lastly, students who miss class will be responsible for procuring lecture notes and announcements from a classmate.

You may miss 3 classes without penalty. For each subsequent absence, 5 points will be deducted from your final course average. Please note: I do not differentiate between “excused” and “unexcused” absences.

On exams, you will be responsible for the content of lectures, in-class videos, handouts, and class discussions. Because many of the concepts, facts, and interpretations covered in class will be supplemental to the assigned text, success in this course requires both reading all assignments and attending class regularly. Please note that I will not lecture from the textbook. The textbook will serve as background context to the lectures.

Lecture notes will not be posted online. Additionally, during exams/assessments, entry to the classroom will not be permitted once the exam/assessment has begun.

Late / Makeup Work:
- Quizzes – You may not make-up missed quizzes, for whatever reason. However, I will drop the three lowest quiz scores.
- Exams – Make-up exams will be taken during the regularly scheduled December 5th class, and only during this time. If you do not have to make-up an exam, you do not have to attend class this day.

Academic Honesty:
Read the section on this subject in the student handbook. It is expected that all submitted work be completed by the student, prepared without outside assistance or collaboration. Plagiarism is easier to spot than students may realize. University rules require faculty to report suspected cases of plagiarism to the administration, and being found guilty of this offense can result in severe penalties, including expulsion. In addition, students guilty of plagiarism will automatically fail the course. Cheating on exams in any form, including providing answers or information to other students, will also result in a course failure.

The following websites may help you avoid committing plagiarism:
- University of North Carolina
- University of Indiana
- Northwestern University
- Turnitin

Students with Disabilities:
If a student has a disability that requires accommodation, please notify the professor as soon as possible and provide the necessary documentation from disAbled Student Support Services. Students with questions or concerns should contact:

Carol Pope, Assistant Director
Student Center, Suite 267
770-423-6443
cpope@kennesaw.edu

Electronics:
Cell phones, pagers, etc. must be turned off before entering the classroom. Since non-class related use of laptops can create a distraction for other students, laptops are strictly prohibited.

Issues and Concerns:
Students having difficulty with this course, such as understanding the readings or lectures, speaking in discussion, or personal issues that may affect performance, should immediately consult with the professor.

 Overrides:
Only the Chair of the History Department (Dr. Howard Shealy) may approve the override of the section enrollment cap. Please be directed to the department website where an electronic Override Request Form may be filed.

Incomplete (I) Policy:
A student may be awarded an (I) only if,
- the student has done satisfactory work (C or above) up to the last two weeks of the semester, and
- the student is able to meet the full requirements of the course for nonacademic reasons beyond his/her control (such as serious illness or injury).

Withdrawal Policy:
Students wishing to withdraw from this course must do so via Owl Express. Students who simply stop attending classes will be assigned a failing grade (F).

Writing Center:
Students may seek assistance on written assignments including grammar and proper citation of sources at the Writing Center.

The ESL Study and Tutorial Center:
ESL students may seek assistance from professionally trained staff in the ESL Study and Tutorial Center.

Horace W. Sturgis Library:
The Sturgis Library is a most useful resource when conducting research. GALILEO is an essential resource tool. Through GALILEO, students will have access to a number of databases and online journals, such as JSTOR, Project Muse, ProQuest, Lexus-Nexus, WorldCat, etc.

One of the easiest ways to locate a book is to click on “FIND A BOOK” from the library website, and choose “WORLDCAT.” If the KSU library owns the book, it will indicate as such. If not, students can open the citation, and click on “REQUEST INTERLIBRARY LOAN.” A new window or tab will open and ask you to logon to ILLiad. Students will be notified via e-mail once the book arrives, usually within a week or two.

If this is not soon enough, students can request to receive it via GIL Express. These books usually arrive within 24-72 hours.

You may also request journals, newspapers, magazines, etc. through ILLiad.

School Closings Due to Inclement Weather:
Students can check the University status by visiting the KSU website and clicking on “Campus Advisory” on the left side of the home page. Please note that if school has been officially closed, all assignments that were due on that date must be submitted at the beginning of the next scheduled class (this includes exams).
Waiver:
This syllabus is merely a guide to this course and is subject to change.

Communication / Updates / Changes:
All communications, especially those concerning class/syllabus updates or changes will be made via VISTA or posted to the course website: http://ksuweb.kennesaw.edu/~rbrooki1/. Students are strongly encouraged to check these daily. Please note, however, that the professor rarely checks VISTA e-mail. If you need to contact, do so in person or at the above listed e-mail address.
