Course Description
This course will cover the history of Georgia from the pre-contact period until present day. With such a broad chronological purview, we could never hope to cover everything with equal weight; instead, we will discuss the major historical themes, trends, and events that have created the Georgia we know today. From the pre-colonial native inhabitants, Spanish exploration and English settlement, Cherokee removal, and slavery, to the state’s role in Civil War and Reconstruction, Jim Crow segregation, the Civil Rights Movement and Massive Resistance, the New Right, Suburbanization, and more, we will study the history of Georgia as both a microcosm and aberration of the broader American experience. In many ways, Georgia is a prototypical representative of a national culture, but unique decisions and historical forces also converged to make it a distinctive place on the national map.

Course Objectives
The primary objectives of the course are to develop your skills as critical readers of primary and secondary historical documents, to improve your ability to communicate in an organized and analytical fashion, and to provide you with fundamental knowledge about the events, people, and institutions that have shaped Georgia’s past.

To accomplish these objectives, we will approach the subject matter in a variety of ways. The traditional stuff of a history course – reading, writing, discussion, and lecture – will be central to the student's workload. The required reading list includes a balance of good historical writing, primary documents, memoir, and fiction, all of which is essential to understanding how we, as historians, tell about the past.

Readings
You have a wide variety of readings for this course, including an edited collection of primary sources and essays, two book-length works of nonfiction, and one work of fiction. You are not required to purchase a general textbook; for general reference questions, I suggest that you consult the New Georgia Encyclopedia (georgiaencyclopedia.org), or purchase a copy of Kenneth Coleman, et al., A History of Georgia.
Required Texts:
Christopher Meyers, The Empire State of the South: Georgia History in Documents and Essays
Jacqueline Jones, Saving Savannah: The City and the Civil War
Laura Wexler, Fire in a Canebrake: The Last Mass Lynching in America
James Dickey, Deliverance

Course Requirements
Exams: You will have three exams this semester, two midterms and the final. Exams will consist of identifications and essays. On the final exam, the identification section will not be cumulative, but the essay questions will ask you to think broadly about the material we have covered throughout the entire semester. We will discuss some strategies for studying for these exams, as well as how to write an effective exam essay in class. You will need a blue book for each exam, which you can buy in the KSU bookstore.

Quizzes/Wiki Posts: We will have frequent unannounced quizzes that will assess your understanding of the short reading assignments from Meyers or other short outside readings. In addition, you will also participate in ongoing wiki discussions on GA View Vista that will reflect your thoughts as you read your book-length assignments. These online discussions will begin with a question or comment from me, to be followed with your short reaction (no more than 250 words). For every new post I make, you must respond at least once to receive credit. I expect this to be an online conversation, with your comments playing off of the comments of previous posts. You will not have an opportunity to make up quizzes or wiki discussions, but you can drop your two lowest grades.

Book Review: You will choose between our three books to write one 4-5 page paper that should focus on a central theme or question that you found interesting in the book. I will offer a couple of broad questions for each book that should get you started, but feel free to develop your own topic as well (with my approval). We will further discuss my expectations for these papers in class.

Class Participation: Finally, you are expected to fully participate in classroom discussion. You should come to class each day prepared to engage the readings with thoughtful comments and questions. Be ready to present, articulate, and defend your ideas, as well as listen to and comment on the ideas of others. The success of this class depends, in large part, on your willingness to participate in discussion.

Grading
Exam I: 15%
Exam II: 15%
Final Exam: 20%
Book Review: 20%
Quizzes/Wikis: 20%
Class Participation: 10%
Academic Integrity
All students are responsible for maintaining the highest standards of honesty and integrity in every phase of your academic careers. If you have not already read KSU’s Student Code of Conduct, you should do so immediately. You can find it here: http://www.kennesaw.edu/scai/code_of_conduct.shtml.

I regard plagiarism – an attempt to pass another’s work as your own – as a particularly serious offense. We will discuss in detail what constitutes plagiarism as we prepare for this semester’s writing assignments. Until then, please familiarize yourself with what it is and how to prevent it here: http://www.kennesaw.edu/scai/cheating_plagiarism.shtml.

Attendance
Attendance is mandatory, and I will take roll every day. If you are more than fifteen minutes late for class, you will be counted as absent for that day. Each absence over four will result in ten points subtracted from your final grade. Your physical and mental presence in the classroom is essential to your ability to do well in this course.

Contacting Me
I will hold regular office hours. If these hours do not work for you, feel free to knock on the door to see if I’m in, or we can make an appointment for a convenient time. You can also contact me via office phone or email, but keep in mind that I sometimes do not check email at night.

Classroom Rules
I aim to create a congenial classroom experience guided by the imperative of mutual respect among participants. The ring of the cell phone, the bowed head and hidden hands of the texter, and the disinterested gaze of the web surfer all amount to a breach of that respect. So, turn off all of your electronic devices before entering the classroom; it’s just that simple. I will allow the use of laptops to take notes, but if I see that you are using it for other means, you will not be allowed to use it for the remainder of the semester.
