Course Description

History 1110 is an overview of world history which provides an introduction to the origin and development of the world’s societies and their political, cultural, and economic traditions. The course uses a global approach to world history.

Objectives

History is about change. Historians tell the story of the past, how events unfold and how change leads to change. Their first task is to observe specific events, but their ultimate job, especially when surveying world civilizations, is to discover general patterns and processes that help them understand and explain those events and the changes they bring. This course is designed to help the student see those patterns. It is a compelling story.

There are many reasons for studying history. Its practice requires reading, writing, and argument – skills that are essential for success in virtually any profession. It also acquaints students with geographic features and place names that remain relevant in today’s world. But perhaps the overarching reason for studying history is this: studying the past helps us understand the present. The present is simply the current moment of that process we call “history,” and the present world is truly global.

Policies

1) A Student’s course grade will be determined by averaging the highest four scores of five exams (the lowest score will be dropped.) Students may not use any electronic device during an exam. The first, third, fourth, and fifth exam (See course calendar and bring a no. 2 pencil to class.) will contain about 35 - 50 multiple choice or other short answer questions. The second exam will require an essay to be written on a topic chosen by the student from several options. The essay should demonstrate not only the student’s command of the subject, but also his or her ability to make a written argument that is clear and coherent. Map questions on all exams except exam four will require the student to identify historically significant physical features such as continents, oceans, mountain ranges, rivers, lakes, seas, and deserts as well as political entities. (See last page of syllabus.) In class students are urged to ask questions and to share their thoughts about material presented in the text and in lectures. Students who make particularly insightful contributions to class discussion will be awarded bonus points which will be added to their numerical grade average. Usually one to three points are awarded to students who excel in class participation, although on rare occasions students have earned up to five points. In order to keep class on schedule, the instructor may from to time to time limit students’ remarks, however. No other extra credit will be awarded.

2) No exams will be made up. The lowest score of the five exams, however, will be dropped.

3) The instructor will grade and return the first exam before the last day to withdraw without academic penalty (March 5). Nevertheless, it will be the responsibility of any student who is absent at the time the exams are returned to contact the instructor and arrange to pick up his or her graded exam before or after the next class meeting.

4) Academic integrity: Every KSU-student is responsible for upholding the provisions of the Student code of conduct, as published in the Undergraduate and Graduate Catalogues. Section II of the Student Code of Conduct addresses the University’s policy on academic honesty, including provisions regarding plagiarism and cheating, unauthorized access to University materials, misrepresentation/falsification of University records or academic work, malicious removal, retention, or destruction of library material, malicious/intentional misuse of computer facilities and/or services, and misuse of identification cards. Incidents of alleged academic misconduct will be handled through the established procedures of the University Judiciary Program, which includes either an ‘informal’ resolution by a faculty member, resulting in a grade adjustment, or a formal hearing procedure, which may subject a student to the Code of Conduct’s minimum one semester suspension requirement.

5) Course Letter grades are assigned as follows: A= 90-100; B=80-89; C=70-79; D=60-69; F= 0-59.

6) March 5 is the last day a student may withdraw without academic penalty. Students should officially withdraw at the registrar’s office.

7) I can be contacted through the History Department (770) 423-6294 or at jpoole@kennesaw.edu. I am generally available for consultation on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday mornings. Please email me for an appointment. If you have to miss a class, please arrange to have another person share his or her notes with you for that day. I aim to be as helpful as possible, but please do not email to ask for information given in this syllabus.
